Repairs slated for Lombadina Airport

Wednesday, March 26, 2008

The Dampier Peninsula's only all-weather airport is set to undergo several thousand dollars worth of repairs.

A total of $17,000 has been committed to repairing the Lombadina Airport.

The Western Australian Government chipped in a third of the money and the Japanese resource firm Inpex also contributed.

The funding will go towards clearing bushland and grading the runway.
